Introduction & Methodology

1- Following the endorsement of the GCM, the Government of Egypt (GoE) adopted a series of measures with a long-term vision. These measures ranged from the establishment of several mechanisms and bodies to adopting policies which aim to improve migration governance.

2- In November 2019, the Prime Minister issued a decree to establish a National Committee, headed by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, to coordinate and follow up on the implementation of the GCM in coordination with all relevant national agencies, including the Ministry of State for Emigration and Egyptian Expatriates’ Affairs (MoSEEEA), Ministry of Manpower (MoM), Ministry of Interior (MoI) and the National Coordinating Committee for Preventing and Combating Illegal migration and Trafficking in Persons (NCCPIM&TIP) to ensure policy coherence and mainstreaming migration at all policies. The National Committee reports on a regular basis its work to the Prime Minister. To date, the Committee has drafted three publicly available reports in January, March, and July 2020.

3- The review illustrates the whole-of-government and whole-of-society dimensions that have been considered during all initiatives implemented. Likewise, it has taken a human rights-based, gender-responsive and child-sensitive approach into account, in accordance with the GCM’s Guiding Principles, paragraph 15 (f), (g) and (h). The review helped identify certain gaps that will be tackled by the government in the coming period.

4- The engagement and information regarding the national review has been coordinated through MoFA. The Ministry, led by the department responsible for Migration, Refugees and Combating Human Trafficking, oversaw the communication with relevant external stakeholders, whether bilaterally or through the multiple committees and institutional bodies that report to the GoE. Furthermore, MoFA relied on the existence of groups and mechanisms formed by stakeholders such as the Mixed Migration Working Group (MMWG) and the inter-ministerial Committee that was formed to facilitate the engagement of stakeholders.

Policy and enabling environment

5- Egypt deals with migration issues from a comprehensive and holistic approach, that is closely linked to the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development: Sustainable Development Goals, specifically amplifying Goal 10.7.: ‘Facilitate orderly, safe, regular and responsible migration and mobility of people, including through the implementation of planned and well-managed migration policies’. What is more, the GoE has its own national strategy, the Sustainable Development Strategy (SDS): Egypt Vision 2030, that builds on the 2030 Agenda in the aim to achieve sustainable development, social justice and a balanced, geographical and sectoral growth. Egypt Vision 2030 is aligned with those of the SDGs objectives. Although migration is not explicitly mentioned in the SDS, it referred to taking into consideration the vulnerable and marginalized groups in the society, which by extension includes migrants and refugees.

6- The GoE also strengthened mechanisms for collecting disaggregated, high-quality, timely and reliable data in line with the SDGs 10: Reduced inequalities and GCM Goal 17: Partnerships for the Goals, in order to enhance the availability of migration-related data that can support the creation of evidence-based policies and strategies.

7- Regarding COVID-19 impact and response measures, migrants have faced challenges due to the unprecedented type of the crisis for both individuals and institutions. Accordingly, the GoE put in place a series of measures to alleviate pressure on migrants. Some examples are the provision of medical health to migrants on an equal footing with Egyptians and applying flexibility in visa expiration dates, in addition to allowing migrant children to enroll in the schools for the academic year 2020-2021 without valid resident permits. These efforts fall under objective 5 of the GCM: enhance availability and flexibility of pathways for regular migration.

8- Imposing exceptional restrictions on the mobility of many Egyptian migrants left international students, seasonal workers and many others stranded and required swift intervention and coordinated action from the government as it will be highlighted later in the report. The resettlement opportunities for refugees hosted by Egypt to other countries have also been affected, and the number of migrants voluntarily repatriated to the countries of origin has been affected by the irregularity of flights as well as the travel restrictions.

9- The GoE has, in the last two years, proved its willingness to push and integrate migration matters further on the regional and international scene. Some examples are; the Regional Conference on the Global Compact for Safe, Orderly and Regular Migration ‘Implementation and Policy Implications for the Arab Region’ in Cairo on the 3rd and 4th of December 2019; the Capacity-building Workshop on Migration Governance in the Arab Region also in Cairo on the 5th December 2019; held with Migration Focal Points from Arab States including Egypt, co-organized by IOM, ESCWA and the League of Arab States; the Aswan Forum for Sustainable Peace and Development held on December 2019 to discuss the achievement of sustainable development in Africa, with forced displacements and migration governance as one of the topics included. Other examples of international events were the successful hosting of the International Forum on Migration Statistics (IFMS) held in January 2020 in Cairo with the participation of more than 800 international representatives. Additionally, Egypt is an active member on seven Inter-State Consultation Mechanisms (ISCMs) on migration at the regional and global level. These are the Pan-African Forum on Migration (PAFOM) that was hosted in Cairo in September 2019, the Arab Regional Consultative Process on Migration and Refugee Affairs (ARCP), the Migration Dialogue from the Common Market for Eastern and Southern Africa Member States (MIDCOM), the African Union Horn of Africa Initiative on Human Trafficking and Smuggling of Migrants (AU HoAI), the EU-Horn of Africa Migration Route Initiative (Khartoum Process) and the Global Forum on Migration and Development (GFMD).

Progress on GCM objectives

10- Since the endorsement of the GCM, the GoE has intensified its endeavors in the governance of migration, in addressing the challenges associated with today’s migration, and strengthening the contribution of migrants and migration to sustainable development. Egypt approaches migration issues with a comprehensive strategic view covering all stages of migration; considering its status as a country of origin, transit, and destination. With Egypt as transit and destination country. Cooperation with the countries of origin of irregular migrants has been an essential component of the national policy to address root causes or irregular migration through supporting development-stability nexus in these countries or building the technical capacities of law enforcement agencies particularly in African countries.

Furthermore, as Egypt is also a country of origin, the GoE emphasizes on the necessity to youth’s skills upgrading and enhancing their employability in accordance with the needs of national and global markets and encourages inter-governmental coordination regarding labour migration and mobility. In addition, the government prioritizes international cooperation for facilitating migrants’ access to labour markets in a fair and ethical manner that impedes their exploitation and positively utilizes their skills to contribute to development.

Status of the implementation of all GCM 23 objectives:

1. Collect and utilize accurate and disaggregated data as basis for evidence-based policies.

   ✓ Egypt believes in the importance of having timely and reliable data to support human mobility and labor markets demands based on a rights-based approach, in addition to understanding drivers of irregular migration.

   ✓ The GoE established the Migration Data Analysis Unit (MDAU) at Central Agency for Public Mobilization and Statistics (CAPMAS), in 2017 with an aim to carry out research and cater for migration data gaps. MDAU focuses on producing an analysis of key migration statistics collected by the government to support the development of evidence-based policy and enhance migration governance.

   ✓ A presidential decree to establish a national data base of expatriates was issued in September 2018 to guide the decisions regarding migration governance and to track migrants abroad to ensure they are registered with respective embassies.

   ✓ Examples of MDAU capacity building efforts included the following collaborations: In February 2019, senior officials from different government counterparts including MoSEEEA, NCCPIM&TiP, the Institute of Statistical Studies and Research (ISSR), among others, attended workshops at CAPMAS on irregular migration data. These workshops were organized in collaboration with IOM’s Global Migration Data Analysis Center (GMDAC). The workshops tackled the methodologies on data collection and analysis for policy development, theories and definitions of irregular migration, international sources for migration data, and data trends in the MENA region.

   ✓ In September 2019, CAPMAS specialists were trained on the technicalities and the methodologies of designing data on Household International Migration Survey (HIMS) for Egypt, with the aim of overcoming data shortage problem on international migration nationally and regionally.

   ✓ Egypt hosted the fifth African Forum on Migration, in September 2019, that focused on migration data in the continent and emphasized the importance of harmonizing methodologies and definitions, as well as building capacities of national statistical institutions in the area of migration data and statistics.

   ✓ In January 2020, Egypt hosted the second International Forum on Migration Statistics (IFMS), the largest global forum dedicated for migration statistics, which aimed to mobilize expertise from a wide range of disciplines such as statistics, economics, demography, sociology, geospatial science, and information technology. It further aimed to support and improve the collection and analysis of migration data worldwide, by bringing together a broad range of participants to share and to discuss new data initiatives and examples of success in the field of migration data. The Forum was attended by António Vitorino, Director General of IOM and explored innovative ways to measure population mobility and to generate timely statistics.

   ✓ The NCCPIM&TiP designed a map to identify Egyptian governorates with the highest rates of irregular migration including exit/departure and sending governorates, in order to focus on enhancing awareness and economic development in these governorates and measure the impact of the efforts and activities in them.

2. Minimize the adverse drivers and structural factors that compel people to leave their country of The government is keen to ensure that the decisions of migration are neither taken out of choice nor desperation. Therefore, the Egypt Vision 2030 adopted by the government aims at creating job opportunities and achieving sustainable development.

From 2017-2018, the GoE implemented a set of projects at the least developed governorates to generate income, create job opportunities, and to support vulnerable communities through environmentally sustainable interventions that both provide basic access to medical services, and access to temporary employment opportunities.

Led by the Ministry of Manpower (MoM), since 2018, several Vocational Training Centers (VTCs) have been refurbished and equipped in governorates with populations at higher risk of migration, to provide with alternatives and higher employability levels.

NCCPIM&TiP is working on identifying and collecting job opportunities and entrepreneurship for youth and publishing them in their webpage, as part of creating alternatives for all the people who are losing their jobs due to COVID-19 pandemic.

NCCPIM&TiP is monitoring the implementation of initiatives by MSMEDA to provide alternatives to youths by training them, increasing their skills, and creating job opportunities.

The National Committee established a working group consisting of the concerned authorities to discuss ways to provide job opportunities in the public and/or private sector; to enable access to information on such openings through publishing on its website and line ministries.

The National Committee cooperated with the Small, Medium and Micro Enterprises Development Agency (MSMEDA) in creating and supporting job opportunities for small entrepreneurs in a way that contributes to protecting them from various forms of exploitation. Efforts included organizing exhibitions for selling products by youth.

Egypt adopted a number of national initiatives, campaigns and projects such as “A decent life”, “Takaful and Karama”, and “100 million health care” for the vulnerable groups, with the aim of improving the economic and social level of Egyptian families.

Meanwhile, the government continues to work on the implementation of mega projects in main sending governorates of irregular migration, mainly focused on creating jobs.

Provide accurate and timely information to all stages of migration.

Egypt is enhancing the registration of Egyptians abroad in the embassies and consulates to ensure accessibility to consular help and update information.

All embassies and consulates abroad received training and guidelines on identifying and providing help to victims of trafficking in persons and smuggled migrants.

The MoM provides pre-departure awareness and the Ministry of Social Solidarity (MoSS) established an application of social media to connect the expats with the ministry.

As part of its 2016-2021 national strategy, training courses are provided by the NCCPIM&TiP as well as awareness raising activities on safe migration practices, risks associated with irregular migration and positive alternatives to irregular migration.

In May 2018, NCCPIM&TiP launched a musical campaign in counter smuggling efforts, shedding light on the suffering of migrants’ families. The song used reached more than 10.5 million people. During the same year, NCCPIM&TiP also implemented community outreach programs on irregular migration, which targeted children aged 12-18 in the six highest sending governorates.

NCCPIM&TiP also delivered a series of workshops aims at enhancing the capacity of Egyptian NGOs and grassroot organizations on raising awareness of irregular migration in the governorates.
with the highest number of migrants.

4. Ensure that all migrants have proof of legal identity and adequate documentation
   - The Egyptian consulates and embassies abroad are responsible for issuing and renewing all identity documents for the Egyptian migrants abroad.
   - Passports Sector at the Ministry of Interior issues “smart residence cards” using advanced technological systems by which permissions for foreigners to stay in the country are being issued. The smart card enables migrants to access governmental and non-governmental services easily and conveniently.
   - The GoE, in collaboration with IOM, maintains a close relation with foreign embassies and consulates to ensure that migrants have valid documentation, including facilitating the issuance of new passports and travel documents.

5. Enhance availability and flexibility on pathways for regular migration.
   - Egypt signed several bilateral agreements to enhance legal pathways for labor mobility.
   - Education reform takes place to ensure the connection between skills and labor market needs.

   - Egypt is signatory to most international conventions that includes fair and ethical standards of recruitment. The Ministry of Manpower is mandated by law to inspect all enterprises to make sure that the workers and employees enjoy their rights and that their contracts recognize the entitlements stipulated in the national legislation.
   - The NCCPIM is mandated to strengthen the capabilities of labor inspectors at the Ministry of Manpower on international labor standards, the protection of workers, especially women and vulnerable groups such as of migrants and people of determination.
   - A legislative review of the Egyptian legal frameworks governing recruitment was conducted. It concluded the conformity between laws on recruitment and the international standards of ethical recruitment.
   - The Federation of Egyptian Industries (FEI) has started collaborations with different international organizations, prominent Egyptian private sector entities and representatives to hold sessions on knowledge exchange on corporate responsibility, ethical recruitment, and sound business practices regarding workers’ protection.

7. Address and reduce vulnerabilities in migration.
   - The legal framework in Egypt criminalizes the smuggling of migrants and trafficking in persons. It emphasizes the importance of extending all support to the victims and the protection of victims.
   - The GoE allocated shelters to host vulnerable Egyptian women and girls at-risk and Victims of Trafficking (VoTs). The shelter is an inter-ministerial effort that will help realize the national strategy to prevent and respond to protection needs of the victims. The shelter supports the rehabilitation efforts of the government towards the victims and strengthen the national protection framework.
   - The Ministry of Social Solidarity has sought out to build capacity of over 100 social workers and their supervisors on trafficking in persons, the training will support the social workers to better identify and respond to needs of victims and those at-risk of trafficking.
In 2018, the National Council for Childhood & Motherhood (NCCM) and the National Council for Women (NCW) expended its hotline response to become more accessible to victims and those at-risk of trafficking. This included a full capacity building programme to ensure the hotlines and their operators are well-equipped to respond to needs of callers. This step is expected to strengthen the government’s identification efforts to reach more of those in need.

8. Save lives and establish coordinated international efforts on missing migrants.

- Egypt succeeded in halting irregular migration from its shores to Europe since September 2016 by strengthening its border management mechanisms, in addition to building capacities of rescue operations.
- H.E. President Abdel Fattah El-Sisi launched the ‘Survival Boats’ Initiative that aims to contribute to the ongoing national efforts to stop irregular migration from Egypt.
- In 2019 Egypt hosted an Expert meeting on Search and Rescue Practices, which was attended by key international stakeholders from Austria and Italy, as well as government representatives from Egypt and other countries in the MENA region. The workshop enabled exchange of best practices between key national actors and fostered and harmonized national capacities to coordinate search and rescue operations in the region.

9. Strengthen the transnational response to smuggling of migrants.

- The Egyptian law no. 82/2016 on combating smuggling of migrants and irregular migration, punishes the perpetrators of this crime and ensures providing help to the victims. The NCCP&TIP developed a National Strategy on Combating Illegal Migration for the period (2016-2026), as well as biannual Plans of Actions.
- Egypt is a member of the Khartoum Process and has held its first chairmanship upon establishment. Egypt is amongst the core countries of the AU-Horn of Africa Initiative under the Khartoum process.
- Egypt hosted the in September 2018 the African-European Conference on Judicial Cooperation in Sharm El-Sheikh, where participating parties declared strong commitment to sharing information, best practices and enhancing judicial cooperation in prosecuting trafficking in persons and migrant smuggling crimes.

Means of implementation

a. The mobilization of the means of implementation are varied in nature. These depend on the specificities of the objective in mind and the implementing body. Throughout the implementation phase, the GoE identified the need for an enhancement of capacity in several sectors – data collection and analysis being one of the most crucial and cross-cutting ones. In this light, the government led the creation of the Migration Data Analysis Unit (MDAU) under the auspices of the Central Agency for Public Mobilization and Statistics (CAPMAS), which aims to address the main gaps and needs with regards to migration data by conducting periodic assessments and data collection exercises to produce updated and accurate statistics on migration issues to support the development of evidence-based policy and enhance migration management in Egypt.

As per the information used in the process of implementation, the government has primarily relied on existing sources at the national and local level. It has also made use of the already mentioned mechanisms such as the Migration Affairs Committee for the advancement of the review.

Next steps

a. At the regional level and drawing from the issues identified during the national review, the GoE aims at prioritizing a series of key action points. The country envisions a prioritization of a more cohesive set of policies for host countries of migrants, together with strengthening international support. The constant influx of migrants who flee wars and political instability in some neighboring countries and reside in Egypt without seeking protection as refugees can place a societal, political and economic burden for the host nations. The international community and the global efforts to improve migration governance often lack coherent policies that create common ground for understanding differences between origin, transit and destination countries. It stresses the importance to provide countries with higher number of migrants proportionally to the resident population - which are often the ones at the front line of the migratory flows.

Likewise, the role of the League of Arab States (LAS) and the African Union may be enhanced in the coordination of the GCM implementation, and the exchange of best practices, knowledge and information between various countries in the region. A proposal for the latter can be found earlier in this review, where stronger research networks are needed, in order to create a solid and well-functioning exchange flow of data and information across countries. Examples of this have been mentioned such as the African Migration Observatory in Morocco.

Another priority for Egypt is the expansion of regular pathways for migration and labor mobility schemes and opportunities at the regional and global level. This action would also contribute to the intensification of regional counter smuggling and counter trafficking efforts as well as the promotion of fair and ethical recruitment and employment practices. Supportive actions include: Signing the executive contract for the Egyptian German Center for Jobs, Immigration and Reintegration, which will provide pre-departure training and development of vocational and professional capabilities and the German language to absorb Egyptian youth in the German labor market and reintegrate irregular immigrants after returning to their homeland. Also, more focus will be given to enhance the capabilities of officials to collect and analyze external job opportunities and the skills required for work, and work to prepare a training program TOT for a number of the officials to direct pre-departure, in addition to making guidance guides and brochures on labor migration and special travel procedures in each country, through the implementation of the National Committee for a project to strengthen immigration management through institutional support.

Given the transnational nature of migration flows and acknowledging that no country alone can manage them effectively without cooperation with other involved nations, Egypt stresses the importance for the MENA countries, and by extension for the rest of world, to solidify cooperation and participation on migration management notably through capacity buildings and knowledge and lessons learned exchanges.

From the NCCPIM&TIP’s side, the plans programmed to further enhance the implementation of the GCM, include a follow up on the implementation of recommendations on the Regional Forum for Knowledge Exchange and Cooperation among National Coordinating bodies to combat human trafficking and migrant smuggling along the Central and Western Mediterranean Migration Routes. It also plans to increase the number of trainings, workshops and awareness sessions given to stakeholders, both nationally and at the continental level.
