Commitment to the principles of the UN Network on Migration

Working group 2.2 is committed to upholding the principles of the UN Network on Migration (Network) to carry out the below outlined activities of the work plan. Under co-leadership of IOM, OHCHR, and UNDP, the working group will leverage the mandates and technical expertise of relevant UN system entities and build on UN Charter, international law, the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development and other existing UN system coordination mechanisms to seek out synergies and promote coherence of the system's work on migration. All activities instituted through the work plan will adopt a human rights-based, gender-responsive, and child-sensitive approach to respect, protect and fulfil the human rights of all migrants and their communities, especially those in the most vulnerable situations, and provide for opportunities for migrants, especially women migrants, to contribute to development. Workstream 2.2 activities will be carried out in concert with other core and thematic workstreams of the Network's inaugural work plan, with particular emphasis on developing synergies between and with core workstreams 1.2 and 2.1

Network principles are reinforced through the working group's structure, membership, and working modalities. In accordance with the 360-degree approach of the Global Compact for Safe, Orderly and Regular Migration (GCM) and the Network's commitment to inclusivity, working group 2.2 includes a diverse range of participants representing the UN system, national human rights institutions, civil society organisations, local and regional authorities, private sector, academia, employers and workers organizations, and migrant organisations. Diverse composition of the working group will help to ensure that the rights and wellbeing of migrants remain at the forefront of all workstream activities, and that the relevant laws, principles, and frameworks guide the development of work plan deliverables. Regular meetings that allow for both in-person and teleconference connectivity will be conducted to maximise the participation and contribution of working group participants and to establish clear unity of purpose and coherence for the workstream. Regular meetings will also create the results-oriented environment required to support Member States in achieving implementation of the GCM. Information, resources, and materials discussed within the context of working group 2.2 will be shared with participants in writing to ensure transparency and foster accountability within the working group. The inclusion of several Executive Committee representatives in working group 2.2 will further support accountability as well as promote efficiency by connecting the activities of workstream 2.2 with those foreseen under other workstreams and ensuring that work plan activities align with and support the broader efforts and commitments of the Network.

Working group co-leads will establish and maintain clear lines of communication with working group participants, the Network Executive Committee and Secretariat to generate productive feedback loops with the aim to adjust and recalibrate working group outputs and methods in accordance with the Network's commitment to agility. In recognition of the Network's commitment to accountability and inclusivity, the work plan for workstream 2.2 will be submitted to the Executive Committee for review in agreement with the Secretariat's proposed quarterly review cycle, and working group composition will remain open to allow for adjustments and growth as required to meet the demonstrated needs of the workstream.
